CONGRESS KEEPS UP BILL GRIND

Washington's Birthday Spent in Working on Long Delayed Appropriation Measures.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Congress is observing Washington's birthday by grinding out the long delayed appropriation bills. Only nine working days of the present session of congress and both house and senate are centering their whole attention on pressing the big supply bills to a conclusion.

In the senate work was resumed on the army appropriation bill, while in the house consideration of the fortifications bill was renewed. The latter measure furnished the text for a discussion of military preparedness. Representative Gardner of Massachusetts having given notice of his intention to speak on the subject. With the fortifications bill out of the way, the house will take up the general deficiency bill.

Only two of the larger supply bills—the legislative, executive and judicial and the sundry civil—have been passed by the senate. Eleven yet remain to be acted upon. All of the supply bills have been passed by the house except two.

BRITISH TRANSPORT SENT DOWN
Berlin, Feb. 21, by wireless to Sayville.—The report of the sinking of a British transport with troops and the accompanying steamer, reached Berlin too late for comment by the morning papers.

All of the papers, however, feature the report in first page headlines, together with reports of the sinking of other vessels by submarines or mines.

If, as is indicated by the foregoing, a British transport has been sunk, the news probably has been withheld in London. Although accounts of the sinking of various other steamers by German submarines or by mines have been passed promptly by the British censors, there was no intimation in the London dispatches of the destruction of a transport.

BERLIN'S JOBLESS RAPIDLY DECREASE
(By Correspondence of The Associated Press.)

Berlin, Feb. 22.—When the Berlin city government several days ago offered work for 1000 men in clearing the streets of snow only sixty men applied. In the whole empire the number of persons out of employment was reduced in November, and at the end of the month was only about one-third as great as at the end of August.

While labor conditions have improved, it is observed that the number of unemployed flats and stores in Greater Berlin is steadily increasing. This is especially the case with the larger flats and with small shops for the sale of food and other articles of ordinary household consumption. It is expected, too, that a large number of larger flats will be vacated within the next three months, for many families are here seen falling from its lofty perch to the ground. The seven originally cost in the neighborhood of $500,000, but twentieth century progress made it necessary to discard such machines. They were used only ten years.

It is difficult to estimate just what the seven machines returned in profits for the work of unloading ore, but when it is considered that Ashtabula averaged perhaps 6,000,000 tons of ore per year during the time they were operated, and that it cost 20 cents per ton for unloading, it will be seen that they paid for themselves many times over.

The Hulett electric unloader age has arrived on the lakes, and Hoover & Mason machines are operated no longer. They used to take out 5 or 6 tons at a grab, and the new machines grab from 15 to 20 tons.

—AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME.

illies are not renewing their rent contracts, preferring to move into smaller quarters—some because they have lost members in the war, many for reasons of economy. The number of empty flats and shops has now risen to such an extent that houseowners, it is estimated, are now receiving about $19,000,000 a year less in rentals than normally.

TWENTIETH CENTURY PROGRESS CAUSES
SCRAPPING OF MACHINES COSTING $500,000

One of seven Hoover & Mason steam ore loaders at Ashtabula Harbor, Ohio, is here seen falling from its lofty perch to the ground. The seven originally cost in the neighborhood of $500,000, but twentieth century progress made it necessary to discard such machines. They were used only ten years.
